

EMERALD AND GOLD

EMMANUEL BOSSUET & MARIE LAURE BELLANGER — PARIS [FRANCE]

Glamour, pattern, and a hint of 1970s-chic align inside this quintessential Parisian apartment. Designers Emmanuel Bossuet and Marie Laure Bellanger bring together neutrality and grandeur in their living and working space. With many traditional period features still intact, the couple balanced ornamental details found on the fireplaces, moldings, ironwork, and envy-inducing parquet floors with subtle contemporary touches and era-hopping accoutrements. A jewel box for the couple's intensely graphic creations, the timeless nineteenth century flat also carves out space for reception and work. Many of the objects and fixtures gracing the handsome rooms were made by the designers themselves. These personal touches are further complemented by vintage pieces, inherited items, and work from fellow artists and designers, including Mathias Kiss and Pierre Gonalons. Custom designed black and white graphics with touches of gold enliven the walls of the bathroom, kitchen, and dining room.
