

Sean Wotherspoon, Co-Founder of Round Two, Shapes the Future of Style Through an Encyclopedic Knowledge of the Past

The co-founder of vintage and resale shop Round Two developed a global following on social platforms like Instagram and YouTube. Known for his vast appreciation and knowledge of sneakers and clothing that have been highly relevant in streetwear, his honed eye has been tapped by sportswear companies like Guess and Nike to help inform their future offerings. An eminent prodigy of casual style, he's become one of today's most influential style icons.

