

One of Lucas López's first pieces for National Geographic, this graphic was inspired by a relational visualization by Friedrich August Crome and explores the use of various hacks by animals. Each layer represents a certain type of behavior. The graphic shows that while some species are capable of only very few hacks, some apes exhibit up to 22.

National Geographic
Animal Hacks
Alberto Lucas López

TALENTS

