

Just across the border of Chile, in the Atacama Desert, lies Valle de la Luna (Moon Valley). The stone and sand formations have an impressive range of colors and textures that resemble the surface of the moon.