

Set among hills about three and a half hours north of Mexico City by car, these hot spring pools sprawl down the side of a steep incline. The grottos' pale blue water is a result of the high mineral concentration.

