

Exposed steel Quonset hut ribs help shape the central dome—floored in stone, sided in cancell coal masonry, roofed with cedar shingles, and topped by a conical, spire-topped glazed skylight.

An astonishingly eclectic palette includes chunks of cullet-green glass, cancell coal masonry, partially exposed steel ribs, and a wall of ficus.

