

The current commodification of nostalgia and the politicization of culture and heritage present further challenges for architects exploring this route.