

A bit further away, a family of geese was marching toward the orchard. The little goslings were waddling quickly after their mother, excited by the thought of fresh apples.

The geese were being followed by a friendly pig, who slowly approached Shiro and greeted her with a big smile. Wagging its tiny tail with joy, it gobbled up the apples that had fallen on the ground as fast as it could.