

How to Decorate Your Wedding

Personalize your celebration with color schemes, lighting, and accessories

Making your celebration truly magical all comes down to preparation. The more loving consideration, personality, and authenticity that goes into your decorations, the more the magic shines through. “The design sets the mood for the type of celebration you want to have,” says Marisa Suarez-Orozco, whose event studio Tropic of Flowers conjures up dreamy moodscapes and exquisite stationery for weddings all over the world. “Flowers, paper, and decor have the power to transform an environment and create a special and unique experience for you and your guests.”

Above The more individual your decor, the more distinctive your wedding. (And Jaimee and Adam still have the two stunning piñatas to this very day.)
Top left Natural table decorations are wonderful and cost nothing. Make sure you only cut branches to where you are allowed.
Center left From the pretty invitations to place cards in a matching design, the stationery reinforces the style of your wedding.
Bottom left Complementary colors and materials are held together here by similar vertical patterns.