

ABOVE On arrival to the island by speedboat, guests find themselves in front of an imposing arched gateway with a wooden drawbridge. Across the bridge is a large, welcoming, stone-paved courtyard with views to the sea. OPPOSITE Simple, comfortable indoor and outdoor spaces for yoga and relaxation.

as yoga, Pilates, and breathwork. The hotel's 32 guest rooms and suites are divided in two collections: Heritage and New. The Heritage rooms—Sky Suites and Sea View Suites—can be found in the fort itself. Furnished with solid oak furniture and natural textiles, the rooms retain many of the fort's original features, including curved stone walls and picture-framed windows that once housed military cannons. The New rooms include eight Adriatic Balcony rooms with a shared garden to the front and private terraces to the rear. With floor-to-ceiling windows, they are light and bright and have stunning views. Additional amenities in some of the pricier suites include a private Jacuzzi, a sauna, a two-seat cinema, and a telescope for star-gazing. All of the rooms have a palette that draws on the surrounding landscape—natural, earthy tones mixed with bright colors. *