

Previous pages

The house sits in a street of buildings that vary widely in height, size, facade material, age, and approach.

Current pages

Thin, exposed steel slabs span the entire width of the house, dividing it horizontally and vertically, yet giving the impression of one continuous open space.